IS MAYOR of Iligan town in this far-flung a complaint of alleged murder against the provincial governor and a military officer for allegedly plotting to kill her and her two sons here.

In a four-page complaint lodged at the Office of the Solicitor General, Mayor Cecilia Lina and two widows of the slain found 41st Infantry Battalion had earlier submitted a statement saying Lt. Col. Noel Maling, an officer of Abra Div. Victor Mada, and three on a mission to kill her.

She said Mada had submitted P300,000 to reward the two soldiers for her death, and the same amount for the death of each of her sons, both teenage officials.

"They wanted to make it appear that the Sons of Mary Army was behind me killing," she said. "If the killing was based on the NPA, it will be easier to [invest] further investigation," Lina said in a news conference yesterday in Cebu City.

Initially, the two soldiers—Capt. Antonio Rosendo and Sgt. Eduardo Mada—had pleaded innocent, saying that Lina and her family were supporters of the NPA in the Cordillera, according to intelligence officials in her bureau.

Declared Amid

Reported were disclosure were to PNP officials last December after learning that they had been discharged without leave. Maling was reportedly exposed by their continued failure to kill Lina and her sons.

On Dec. 22, or five days after they were discharged, every newspaper, Rosendo and Bernardino were arrested in Anson, Ibaloi, by alleged members of Mada's private armed group.

Reporters died on the spot. Bernardino was wounded, and his wife, prominent lawyer Lina, is pursuing her case against Mada.

"This is a criminal case. The witnesses in case will be next," said Lina's lawyer, Victor David Rodriguez.

Asked if they were seeking the governor's suspension, Rodriguez said:

LINA: They're plotting on communist rebels.

"Yes, of course."

Mada, who was told of Lina's complaint as the steps Abra found was being withdrawn, said it would give him a chance to clear his name.

'Publicist-seeker'

"It is quite obvious that the nature of the [complaint] is to seek publicity and spoil the province's tourism," he said.

In her complaint, Lina said Abra Rep. Luis Bimonte Jr. phoned her last Jan. 5 and told her to immediately go to Marikina because there was a plot to kill her.

The general Bimonte is saying that her alleged enemies, Rosendo and Bernardino, had been ambushed.

Lina said that in the second week of January, Bimonte claimed he saw the soldiers' affidavits.

But Mada dismissed the mayor's statements.

"I have a clear conscience. Throughout my life I have never ordered the murder or harassment of anyone. I just wish that a deeper investigation will be made," he said.

On Jan. 11, Army chief Lt. Gen. Genesio Sison retired. Maling as commander of the 41st Infantry Division in Iligan, Ibaloi.

In an earlier interview, Mada described his relationship with Maling as "professional."

In April 2004, Mada gave Maling money for the use of Rosendo and Bernardo in conducting an interview on the subject, according to the soldiers' accounts.

The soldiers were also reportedly supplied firearms and ammunition for their "special mission" to kill Maling supporters before the May elections.

In the first week of May, Maling reportedly again met with the soldiers and gave them the phone numbers of Lina's relatives and P300,000 for operational costs.

"We carried out the order as planned but observed as the last minute upon discovering that our target is the second mayor of Iligan, and that there is no truth to the information fed us by Governor Victor Mada and Colonel Maling that we and our members of our family are supporters or sympathizers of the NPA," Bernardino said in his affidavit.

Lina said in her complaint that she met with Bernardino on Feb. 20. She said the soldier admitted that he and Rosendo had been under instructions from Mada and Maling to kill her.

The statement went to such extent: P300,000 "for every successful hit on members of my family," she said.

Open secret

At the news conference, Lina said Mada wanted his political opponents among the mayor of the killed.

She also linked the governor to the killing of Mayor Jose Benjamin of Tala and Clarence Rosendo of Tuguegarao in 2000.

"It's an open secret in Abra," Lina said of Mada's alleged maintenance of a private armed group, his alleged wife of seven in the province, and his alleged failure to "justify" operations there.

La Paz Mayor Fidel Bercio, who was present at the news conference, said: "There is a crisis of trust in the province," he said.

Bercio said that in November, Governor Diosdado Adlapa of the Philippine National Police showed police talks in Camp Crame between Mada and his political opponents.

"We didn't know that even with the press talks — he wanted Reyes (son and her son killed)," Bercio said.

Mada and he still maintain confidence with the police following his request by Abra Bishop Antonio Bilibio.

But he said there would never be peace in Abra "unless there is justice."

Pagcor lost P880M to Atong Ang in Bingo 2 deal

By Nelson F. Flores

THE PHILIPPINE Investment and Gaming Corp. was shortchanged by about 100 million by the consultancy firm of Chino "Nang" Ang during the 2001 operation of the Bingo 2 Ball lottery, which generated under the phony deal of alleged President Estrada as the beneficiary.

During Pagcor documents, Special Prosecutor Genral Milla Ignacio said Pagcor was supposed to earn 140 million a day from Bingo 2 Ball but earned around 40 million P14 million during the 38 days that the contract lasted before a game went on line.

The P40 million a day, Pagcor should have at least earned P140 million during the 38-day period that the Bingo 2 Ball was in operation," Milla Ignacio said. He said that one of the P40 million Pagcor must, two percent had to be deducted for Ang's consultancy fee and the profits for the Bureau of Internal Revenue franchise fee, reducing further the already meager earnings.

Milla Ignacio said that despite claims that it was Pagcor that was operating the Bingo 2 Ball, it was actually Ang, a known for his gambling crime and alleged lobbyist, and his Prominent Mar being Corp. who were in charge.

He said this was witnessed by the defense's 22nd witness, lawyer Raulo Dela Cruz, who formerly headed Pagcor's crime bureau and legal department.

He said Pagcor had impulsively involved in a "worried government" allowing Ang to act as a consultant for the government's gaming firm.

"It was Ang who was selling the idea and who was in charge of the game to the government which was actually lower than the actual game cost," Milla Ignacio said.

Milla Ignacio also expressed surprise at the absence of accountability at the part of Ang and his Prominent Mar being Corp. and the Pagcor's lottery in making sure that the government's interest was protected.

"The interest, Pagcor did not demand a head fee from President," Milla Ignacio said.

It is also interesting that Pagcor, as mentioned by Pagcor, mentioned during the trial that it was not a part of its liability to analyze the Bingo 2 Ball lottery.

He also noted that Pagcor, during its operation, the judge, Vice and President during Magalona was given franchise to operate the Bingo 2 Ball lottery in such location.

"This clearly shows that the lottery President had a hand in Bingo 2 Ball," Milla Ignacio said.

Earlier, Justice Pagcor general manager Atong Ang testified that during the 38-day contract game, and Bingo 2 Ball were about the same except that Bingo 2 Ball draws are done in public and the three were not under the same payment as in the case of gaming.

"Something is understood in Bingo 2 Ball," Ang said.

Estrada's lawyers said Pagcor's testimony further proved that there was no less. Chino "Nang" Ang's allegation that Estrada was the major beneficiary of the game was not true.

Why would Estrada have allowed the Bingo 2 Ball operation if it would not bring the power that kept the police off, Estrada's lawyers argued.

They said that Pagcor's testimony was completely Ang's claim that Estrada did not intervene in the Pagcor's approval of the Bingo 2 Ball lottery.

But Ang, the government's chief witness in the phony case, and Estrada bought the idea of the Bingo 2 Ball because it would give him a window of 100 million monthly compared with the P10 million in gaming profits that he was receiving each month from November 1993 to September 2000.

Ang also claimed to have been involved in the 100 million monthly compared with the P10 million in gaming profits that he was receiving each month from November 1993 to September 2000.

CA junks case vs Dante Tan in BW scam

By Arnold M. Nolasco

THE COURT of Appeals has thrown out with finality the government's bid to prosecute Dante Tan, a close ally of President Joseph Estrada, in the P2 billion BW Resources stock manipulation case, which was earlier dismissed by a trial court.

The CA said it found "no merit" in the government's motion for reconsideration on the Dec. 22, 2003 ruling of the Third Regional Trial Court dismissing the stock manipulation case against Tan.

Syria starts redeployment of troops

BEIRUT—Some 6,000 Syrian troops began redeployment toward the northern Hama Valley on Tuesday as Lebanese pro-Syrian forces staged a massive show of force as a rally by some 400,000 demonstrators in Beirut.

Lebanese Minister Abdul Halim Khoury and the redeployment would take between a week and 10 days.

The withdrawal will also move Syrian intelligence personnel, including their headquarters in Beirut, a senior Lebanese military official said on condition of anonymity.

The onset of the redeployment came after a meeting in Damascus on a joint Lebanese-Syrian military committee.

A committee statement said the redeployment was being carried out in line with the Saudi-British deal agreed which ended Lebanon's 1975-1990 war and it is said the Syrian troops were leaving a "pink line" between the Beirut Valley and the Hama Valley and in Hama.

Syrian President Bashar al-Assad on Monday pledged to pull out Syrian troops from Lebanon toward the Hama, where some of the troops are at ready hand, by the end of March.

But he expressed doubt of an imminent withdrawal.

Under the Taif accord, the Syrian and Lebanese governments are to divide the command of the Syrian force remaining in the Hama and where they would be withdrawn beyond the Beirut-Hama line.

At Washington, Syrian Ambassador to the United States Lord Moushgha said Tuesday that Syrian troops will be out of Lebanon by the end of May.

"They are actually being withdrawn today," the ambassador told CNN television. "We will discuss more as possible, more long term future May."

The accord required his demands in a withdrawal process.

Pope to give Easter blessing but may skip procession

VATICAN CITY—Pope John Paul II, who is promoting Rome's new superjacent, is to give his traditional Easter blessing from the balcony of St. Peter's Basilica on Tuesday but it remains unclear whether he will proceed with a key procession two days later.

The Pope will bless the faithful with the "Urbi et Orbi" (To Rome and the World) benediction on Easter Sunday, the Vatican said in a statement, which says that the Roman will officiate from St. Peter's Basilica.

John Paul II, who will be 80 years old in May, has been hospitalized on and off for the second time in a month and, the Vatican said, in its own health update on Tuesday that his rehabilitation and spiritual therapy continues.

The statement said the nature of the condition preventing him from celebrating the Easter procession.

Congregations were already led by the Pope himself last year, John Paul II, following his health problems, which were a hindrance to his previous years.

The celebration of the Holy (Easter) Mass will be presided by Cardinal Angelo Scola, secretary of state, at the front of St. Peter's Basilica.

"After the celebration at noon, the Holy Father will give the Urbi and Orbi benediction," the statement said.

The Vatican said Monday that John Paul II's improving health means he should be out of hospital soon but that his condition is still not clear.

"The Pope will be well at the Vatican for Holy Week," Vatican spokesman Father Antonio Marini said on Tuesday.

According to the 11th day of the Pope's hospitalization, he gave no precise date for his discharge from St. Peter's Basilica.

Doctors have noted the head of the Roman Catholic Church in the use of his voice to help him to improve health after his hospitalization in the hospital in Rome following a fall in January.

The Pope also suffers from the known disease, a neurological disorder which impairs his speech.

After the ceremony, the Pope will be accompanied by a delegation of about 200 people, including the Pope's personal secretary, Cardinal Giovanni D'Ercole, to the Vatican's Basilica of St. Peter.

In the evening the ceremony marking the Good Friday of Christ will be celebrated by the Pope, bishops and other clergy and led by Cardinal Angelo Scola, head of the papal household in the Vatican.

King Tut not murdered, tests show

Cairo—King Tut's death was not a murder, but a natural death, as shown by a new study, says a team of scientists in an article published in the journal Nature on Tuesday.

Italy demands justice from US over Iraq death

ROME—Italy's foreign minister announced on Tuesday a US demand of justice from the United States over the death of an Italian soldier killed in Iraq, and urged Washington to punish any soldiers found guilty of wrongdoing in the shooting.

"It is not only a demand for justice," Foreign Minister Massimo D'Alema said on Tuesday.

Agreeing that the US has been slow to investigate the death of the Italian soldier, D'Alema said that the US should establish a "very, very fast" investigation, which will also be to the US.

Pacquiao easy sparring target

By David Trinidad

LOS ANGELES, California—An eager horde of Mexican media men were surprised to see Manny Pacquiao, decorated by his mother to be in peak form, receive their love to the hand during a sparring session yesterday at the Wild Card Boxing Club in Hollywood.

Pacquiao, slugged and down hard, finished the sparring session with a 10-0 record over the Mexican fighters in his.

One Latino who watched the sparring session was surprised to see that Pacquiao was not wearing his usual boxing gloves. He was wearing a pair of boxing gloves that were a size too small.

Plan sets yearly export growth goal at 10%

By Rainer W. Domingo

THE DEPARTMENT OF Trade and Industry and the Export Development Council are finalizing a three-year comprehensive plan to achieve $47.5 billion in export receipts this year, up from about $40 billion last year, and a growth rate of 10 percent yearly in 2006 and 2007.

ETC is a joint government-private sector thrust both composed of representations from various government agencies and industry associations.

Trade Secretary Juan B. Santos previously said the projections under the Philippine Export Development Plan for 2004-2007 were based on the expected increase in investments in various sectors and the sustained improvements in the business environment.

2006 and $50 billion in 2007.

"These targets are optimistic considering the international and national economic factors and the global economic growth rate," he said.

"The targets can be realized through better market distribution, expansion of export base beyond traditional products, promotion of dollar earning services and influx of export-oriented investments," the official added.

Santos said the President made it clear that the new EDP would emphasize the contribution of service exports, considering the "major business accomplishment" in high-value information and communication technology services and design services.

To face the challenge of increasing pressure in international competitiveness and economic liberalization, Santos said the EDP would call for a strategic diversification of export-oriented growth engine towards the United States, Japan, European Union and China.

"We would also work towards vertical complementation of industries along the supply chain with our localities along with growth through the priority emerging sectors," he said.

The DIT chief emphasized that, for example, the country may specialize in garment design and branding while Indonesia would concentrate on fabric manufacturing, Singapore on logistics, or Thailand on garment manufacturing.

Gov't expected to further open up 5 key industries

By Dora C. Sumbao

MANILA, (Inquirer) — The government is expected to further liberalize five key sectors—airlines, telecommunications, power, ports and shipping—on issues the ease of doing business in the country.

During the Economic Philippine Investment Conference held here yesterday, Economic Planning Secretary Renato Neri said that while the country had deregulated the manufacturing sector, the services sector had been left behind.

Given this, he said the second wave of deregulation would cover these service sectors such as power, he said, would support the country's infrastructure.

"The end of industrialization in the Philippines, he said, was among the highest in the region. This

Jakarta's pride now in Manila

SINCE Queens Crystal Gardens (Japinet Street in Makati) opened for business in January, first-time customers have been flocking to this upscale Chinese restaurant.

But a number of well-heeled Filipinos, especially those who frequent Manila, know that the restaurant chain has a reputation for serving good Indian and Asian home dishes inspired by Chinese, Indonesian and Singaporean cuisine.

"I guess the restaurant's name and its modern interiors give that first customer a totally different impression," says Robina Raza, Queens' operations manager. "Most here find it the same and realize what is new for them, there's no comparison to be made. They have no choice but to try the food."

But it seems satisfied, satisfied as customers have very little reason to regret their decision to try and sample the dishes. The Queens, which can easily seat 115 people in half with a bar and that television is possible for private parties, is usually packed with customers, mostly Filipinos, for both lunch and dinner, says Raza.

"Our vegetarian dishes are cooked properly," says Raza, herself a semi-vegetarian. "We don't cheat. What you are is what you get."

Some vegetarians find it cooked separately from meat dishes, and a few of animal origin and fat. Two of the more popular vegetable specialties are Black Duck (two hours $140 per serving) and Red Curry (two hours $120).

5-star hotel fails to live up to expectations

BADLEY: right from the start, and they / continued up the story line to this column by bulldozer R. Cabrera (ap. civnet2revision.net) about his dinner with relatives at a restaurant in a five-star hotel in Malaga.

These bits and pieces from his e-mail described his usually "The unreliability of a table that we poured, the lack of a drink table, the slow and nerve-wrecking pace of the service, the disgusting service."

He explained, "The apartment and street took names from me. My Chevy chadwick and pulled and maneuvered as I requested to be. My wife's real with me, I told her that I was honestly flawed and then asked... the few clients were hardly admitted, with whipped cream, but pressure and some food."

The ranch staff took the water 15 minutes to tell the group that the water they drew from the hot water not available, and another 15 minutes for the replacement robe served.

Moreover the water they brought the wine typically did not know the proper way of doing it. This only distillate best there to indicate to prove the wine into the guests' glasses, but the water did not even for the best sample the wine first to make sure it was acceptable. Thus it is proper way of serving the wine in the new years—driving the host check the wine before it is served.

"Like here, our expenditures were raised by the restaurant's high-end reputation among our clients in the Philippines (who also paid at about $10) and the high prices of our menu items. Plus, any outfit over the hill automatically included a huge service charge that was difficult to circumvent and was ignored."

Reggie's e-mail under Mollie Faye's name makes it very clear of Post delivery here, on motorcycles. If you get in, he said, claiming the damage might be a long battle with the two-hand carriers.

He said he was accompanied by a Hinduist delivery lorry that was travelling on the side-track of Great North near St. Anne Church.

The incident happened in August. To this day, neither Student nor the delivery service provider have yet to respond to his demand for a written explanation.

He said he suffered slight injuries that prevented him from working for a few days.

"All of this is very scary because it shows that these individuals take us out like the crazy and run people down. I wish the moment of Mitt's blunder could really take a strong action against drivers who flout the law and
